Rochester Rifle Club New Membership Procedure

Rochester Rifle Club has a membership cap and only accepts new members when our membership is below the cap. If this application is received when we are at our membership cap, you will be informed of where you fall on our waiting list.

New applicants MUST be currently active members of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and must provide proof. Proof of NRA membership must contain your name, your address, your membership number and your membership expiration date on the same document. The following are the only items accepted as proof of NRA membership:

- 1) A current NRA address label from one of the NRA publications (America's 1st Freedom, American Hunter, or American Rifleman).
- 2) A letter or FAX from the NRA containing the above required information. To obtain this letter or FAX from NRA membership, call 1-800-672-3888 and follow these instructions: Dial the number, do not press any numbers and wait for the switchboard operator. Ask to be connected to an NRA membership representative in Fairfax, Virginia. Ask that representative to send you a letter or FAX with your membership information. Be sure to tell him to include all 4 items (name, address, membership number and expiration date).

Applications without proof of NRA membership will be returned without action!

Do not send copies of your NRA card or other correspondences you receive from the NRA as these do not contain all the required information on the same document. Not providing the described proof of NRA membership will just delay your acceptance in the club.

Once this application is accepted by the membership director, you will be sent an invitation to a New Member's Orientation class and a copy of the range rules. After successful completion of that class, payment will be accepted and you will receive your keycard to the club.

Spouse and junior members must also complete a basic firearms safety course to use the range and become an RRC club members. This requirement can be fulfilled by showing evidence of military service, attending a DEC hunter safety training class, a BSA gun safety course or by attending a firearm safety course at RRC. Attending a New Member's Orientation class is also an acceptable fulfillment of this requirement.

General Information about the club

The Rochester Rifle Club is a civilian shooting organization affiliated with the NRA since 1914. The RRC provides an indoor shooting range for air guns, 22 rimfire rifles and handguns of most calibers (magnum loads are not allowed). The range has 12 positions with target stops at 10 meters for air rifle/pistol and 50 feet for firearms. The club is a membership, non-profit organization. All the officers and directors are volunteer and are not paid. The club is available 24/7 for member's casual shooting except during the periods when there are regularly scheduled programs. New members are encouraged to check out our various programs which include several junior programs for boys and girls 12 years and older, the Community Pistol League (CPL), and Sporterifle (22 rimfire rifle competition). More information about RRC and its programs can be found on our website at:
